DONATION POLICY

The Library appreciates the generosity of the donors of books and other library material, however when making contributions of materials or money, please keep in mind the following guidelines:

1. The basic purposes of a Library are information, education and recreation. Your gift will be most valuable if it purchases furniture, equipment or provides library materials such as books, records, films, etc.
2. The Library is unable to accept gifts with conditions.
3. The Library does not purchase used books or rare materials from the public.
4. The Library does not provide an appraisal service, suggest value or provide lists of donated materials. The Director will provide the names of appraisers if the donor wants this service.
5. The Library will have unconditional ownership of the gift and will make the final decision regarding its disposition. Books or other materials may be added to the collection, or discarded.
